Priyanka Gandhi hits back after PM Modi blames Congress for Covid spread

NEW DELHI, OPEN SEARCH

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra slammed Prime Minister Narendra Modi after he blamed Congress for egging on the migrants to leave Mumbai in the first wave of the coronavirus disease (Covid-19) pandemic, which eventually led to the Covid-19 spread in states like Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand, Punjab and Bihar. Reacting to the remarks, Priyanka Gandhi asked whether the Prime Minister wanted nobody to help them. "What did Modi ji want? What does he want?" she asked.

Speaking in Panaji on Monday, Priyanka Gandhi said, "People whom he had deserted, who had no way of returning to their homes, who were coming back on foot - did he want that nobody should help them? What did Modi ji want? What does he want? What about the big rallies he did?" as per ANI report. Who's Cong UP CM candidate? Watch how Priyanka Gandhi backtracks on big hint

Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi has made a U-turn over her remarks about being party's face in Uttar Pradesh. In response to a question yesterday about whether she is the CM face of the party in Uttar Pradesh, Priyanka had responded by saying that there is no other face other than her which is visible in the state.

PM invokes Nehru to corner Congress in House

NEW DELHI, OPEN SEARCH

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday repeatedly invoked Jawaharlal Nehru, country's first PM, as he spoke on a range of issues ranging from price rise to responsibilities of people to defend the "idea of India". In his reply in the Lok Sabha to the debate on motion of thanks on President's Address, Modi invoked Nehru to either defend his government or take aim at the Congress. Opposition Congress has been accusing Modi and the current disposition of undermining Nehru's legacy and his contributions to making of modern India. Stating he is accused of not mentioning Nehru's name enough, Modi quipped that he will fulfil the wishes of the Congress. Prime Minister Narendra Modi today invoked country's first premier Jawaharlal Nehru to counter Congress party on inflation and duties of the citizens. PM Modi took a jibe at Congress for accusing him of not invoking the Nehru and his contribution. The PM was speaking in Lok Sabha on the motion of thanks to President's address. Watch the video for more...

"I will repeatedly take Nehru ji's name today. It will be Nehru and only Nehru. You should enjoy," Modi said amid cheer from treasury benches. When Congress leaders like Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury demanded that Modi talk about inflation, the PM said, "Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru said from the Red Fort that 'There is a Korean war and it can affect us. If some disturbance takes place in the US, it too can affect us.' He had given us up on controlling inflation. Imagine our first PM saying this when the world was not at all globalised," Modi said.

He accused the Congress for failing to control double-digit inflation during most part of the United Progressive Alliance (UPA) rule and said his government is committed to keep inflation under control.

Later in his speech, while talking about responsibilities of a government.

S Korean envoy on Hyundai tweet in Pak, says it's 'unacceptable'

The Indian ambassador in Seoul contacted the Hyundai headquarters on Sunday and sought an explanation.

NEW DELHI, OPEN SEARCH

Social media posts by the Pakistan distributor of Hyundai Motors supporting the Islamabad-backed Kashmir Solidarity Day triggered a diplomatic row, with India summoning the South Korean ambassador to lodge a strong protest over the matter.

The matter also figured in a phone conversation on Tuesday between external affairs minister S Jaishankar and South Korea's foreign minister Chung Eui-yong, who called his Indian counterpart in an effort to clear the air on the issue and to contain the fallout of the spat.

Pakistan has observed the Kashmir Solidarity Day on February 5 since 2004 to express its support to separatists backing the merger of Jammu and Kashmir with Pakistan. Islamabad says it offers political, diplomatic and moral support to the Kashmiri people but New Delhi has for long accused the Pakistani side of fomenting unrest and supporting terrorism in Jammu and Kashmir, and beyond. The distributor of Hyundai Motors was among the several Pakistani and multinational companies that posted messages on Twitter and Facebook supporting the Kashmir Solidarity Day on Saturday. The messages initially sparked outrage on social media, and there were numerous messages from Indian users calling for a boycott of the South Korean company and accusing it of supporting terrorism. The external affairs ministry summoned South Korean ambassador Chang Jae-bok on Monday and conveyed the "strong displeasure of the government on the unacceptable social media post by Hyundai Pakistan", according to ministry spokesperson Arindam Bagchi. "It was highlighted that this matter concerned India's territorial integrity on which there could be no compromise," Bagchi said. India expects Hyundai Motor to take "appropriate action to properly address these issues", he added.

South Korean foreign minister Chung Eui-yong also telephoned Jaishankar on Tuesday morning. "While they discussed several issues, the South Korean foreign minister also conveyed that they regretted the offence caused to the people and government of India by the social media post.

Opposition unlikely to bring up Pegasus issue during rest of Budget Session

The issue was back in the news after the New York Times on January 28 reported that the government purchased Pegasus in 2017 as a part of a $2-billion deal with Israel

NEW DELHI, OPEN SEARCH

The Opposition is unlikely to take up the Pegasus spyware issue during the remaining part of Parliament's ongoing Budget Session even as individual lawmakers may raise it as the government has said it is sub-judice and refused any debate on the matter. The issue was back in the news after the New York Times on January 28 reported the government purchased Pegasus in 2017 as a part of a $2-billion deal with Israel for military hardware and intelligence tools. The report triggered a fresh storm in India two days before the start of the session.

"The Supreme Court is looking into the issue. Moreover, the government has not agreed to any debate on Pegasus saying the matter is sub-judice. There is little scope to raise it," said a Congress strategist, requesting anonymity.

The Supreme Court set up an expert committee of computer science, cybersecurity, and digital forensics experts under the supervision of retired judge R V Raveendran to probe into the matter in October. This came months after an international consortium of media outlets in July reported phones of Indian ministers, politicians, activists, businessmen, and journalists were among the 50,000 that were potentially targeted by Pegasus hacking software. The spyware controversy disrupted Parliament's Monsoon Session last year as the Opposition sought a debate and reply from Prime Minister Narendra Modi. The government insisted illegal snooping was impossible. Parliament usually refrains from discussing matters pending before the courts even as there is no bar on taking them up. Parliamentary affairs minister Pralhad Joshi on January 31 said there was no scope for a separate discussion or debate on the Pegasus issue during the Budget Session as the matter was pending before the court.

An Opposition lawmaker said they had other issues to highlight in the Budget Session. "Price rise and unemployment are two important issues and as lawmakers, it is our responsibility to raise people's issues," said the lawmaker, requesting anonymity.

Tamil Nadu Assembly again adopts anti-NEET bill

CHENNAI: (AGENCY)

The Tamil Nadu Assembly on Tuesday adopted the bill against the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) to admit students to undergraduate programmes in medicine. A special assembly session was convened for the purpose during which the bill was adopted by voice vote. All the political parties, except the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) supported the bill.

This is the second time that the Tamil Nadu Assembly has adopted the anti-NEET bill. It was previously passed in September last year to scrap the entrance exam and enable admissions to MBBS and BDS based on Class 12 marks.

The bill will now be sent to the Governor RN Ravi for the second time. He had returned it on February 1, asking the state legislature to reconsider it. The resolution for the passage of the bill was piloted by chief minister MK Stalin.

Speaking in the assembly, Stalin said that NEET "sends students to the cemetery and to jail" and "discriminates marginalised students". The chief minister, referring to the communication of Governor Ravi on the return of the bill, said the reasons adduced by him were not correct.

During the discussion over the bill, the house witnessed din twice when AIADMK's C Vijayabaskar, health minister in the previous regime, traced the origin of NEET to Congress-led UPA regime in 2010 which was opposed by the Congress members.

AAP National Convenor and Delhi Chief Minister Shri Arvind Kejriwal appealed to BJP and Congress supporters to give a chance to Aam Aadmi Party in Uttarakhand. BJP but they both wreaked havoc on the people and hindered the development of Uttarakhand. Being a fairly new party, AAP is bringing in a fresh perspective with an honest CM candidate. We have proved our potential in Delhi, and will do the same here.

Aam Aadmi Party has new ideas and a comprehensive agenda for the development and prosperity of Uttarakhand. Supporters of BJP-Congress will also benefit from free education and healthcare, 24x7 free electricity, and unemployment allowance. Giving the BJP or Congress five more years will not change anything; the government will continue to function as before, and corruption will continue to thrive. Uttarakhand owes 72 thousand crores as debt thanks to the debacles of the BJP & Congress over 21 years. Along with the myriad of advancements, AAP will not only make Uttarakhand debt-free, but also profitable like Delhi. AAP National Convenor and Delhi Chief Minister Shri Arvind Kejriwal said, "Today I'd like to address all supporters of the BJP and the Congress. It is my appeal to you to remain loyal to the party you are in. We are not asking you to abandon your parties and join the Aam Aadmi Party.

Our one request to you, the people of Uttarakhand, is that this election season, you vote for us, regardless of your party allegiance to BJP or the Congress or any other party.

This time, for once, I appeal to the people to push the button for AAP while voting." He continued, "Congress was given 10 years by its voters. What did their government achieve or provide for you in these 10 years? Did they work for the state's progress, for its people and their families? Did the Congress work on improving the education sector for your children? Did they provide jobs to the youth?"

NEW DELHI: (AGENCY)

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday hailed the discipline shown by the people of the country in fight against the coronavirus disease (Covid-19) pandemic. Replying to the debate on motion of thanks in the Rajya Sabha to President Ram Nath Kovind's address to Parliament, the Prime Minister rebutted the allegations made by the opposition parties about unemployment and inflation. Taking a swipe at the opposition parties, the Prime Minister said that the setback and disappointment due to losses in elections should not be thrust upon the people of the country just for the sake of doing politics.

He said that those sitting in opposition benches should work for their respective areas, instead of sulking over their defeats.

Leader of the opposition and Congress' Mallikarjun Kharge protested the comments made by the Prime Minister, to which the PM replied "do not make the mistake made by Adhir Ranjan Chowdhury". It was in reference to the interruptions made by Chowdhury during PM Modi's reply in the Lok Sabha on Monday, after which the PM launched a scathing attack on Congress and other opposition parties. The Prime Minister further said that India's efforts in tackling Covid-19 are being appreciated across the world. PM Modi also quoted verses from one of former Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee's poems, which he said show India's prowess.

"The humankind has never seen a pandemic like Covid-19 in the last 100 years. The crisis changes its forms and creates trouble for the people; the entire country and world are fighting against it," PM Modi said. "When Covid-19 began, it was being discussed what will happen to India. It was also discussed what will impact on world due to India. But due to the willpower and discipline of the 1.3 billion people of the country, efforts of India are being appreciated across the world," he added.

'I Am Sorry': Australia PM Apologises For Abuse, Bullying In Parliament

SYDNEY: (AGENCY)

Australia's prime minister apologised for widespread sexual harassment, abuse and bullying of political staff Tuesday, a year after a high-profile rape allegation rocked the country's parliament.

Addressing lawmakers, Scott Morrison apologised directly to former staffer Brittany Higgins who said she was raped by a male colleague in a minister's office in 2019.

"I'm sorry to Ms Higgins for the terrible things that took place here," Morrison said describing a decades-long culture of abuse in the corridors of power.

"But I am sorry for far more than that -- for all of those who came before Ms Higgins and endured the same." "Over many decades, an ecosystem, a culture, was perpetuated where bullying, abuse, harassment and in some cases even violence, became normalised," he said.

Higgins went public in January last year, sparking nationwide protests. Australians were shocked by the alleged abuse she experienced, but also the way she was treated when she told her bosses. She said she felt pressured not who came forward after her; the government launched multiple inquiries.

One of those, the 450-page to go to the police ahead of the 2019 election and described a "culture of silence" in Australian political parties.

In the wake of Higgins' allegations, and those of other staffers

Jenkins Review, found that one-in-three people currently working in Commonwealth workplaces have experienced sexual harassment while working there.

In his speech, Morrison said

"This has to change. It is changing. And I believe it will change."

Opposition leader Anthony Albanese also offered an apology to Higgins from his Labor party.

"You have torn through a silence that has acted as the life support system for the most odious of status quos," he said.

Listening from the public gallery, Higgins became visibly emotional during the speeches.

She sat between three fellow former staffers who have gone public with their own allegations, and two women's rights advocates.

The women were asked to attend the formal acknowledgement after they tweeted the night before about not being invited. Higgins will speak Wednesday at the National Press Club alongside sexual abuse survivor Grace Tame, who was the 2021 Australian of the Year. Tame dismissed the prime minister's apology. "How about some proactive, preventative measures and not just these performative, last-minute bandaid electioneering stunts?" she tweeted Tuesday.

Chinese Scientists Say New Covid Test Gives Results Within 4 Minutes

BEIJING: (AGENCY)

Chinese scientists say they have developed a new coronavirus test that is accurate as a PCR lab test but gives results within four minutes.

Polymerase chain reaction (PCR) tests are widely considered the most accurate and sensitive for the virus that causes Covid-19, but they usually take several hours.

Some countries have experienced severe backlogs in the face of heavy testing demand, fuelled by the explosive spread of the highly transmissible Omicron variant.

Researchers from Fudan University in Shanghai say they have a solution. In a peer-reviewed article published Monday in the journal Nature Biomedical Engineering, the team said their sensor - which uses microelectronics to analyse genetic material from swabs - can reduce the need for time-consuming Covid lab tests.

"We implemented an electromechanical biosensor for the detection of SARS-CoV-2 into an integrated and portable prototype device, and show that it detected (virus RNA) in less conducted in parallel. The results from their method were a "perfect" match with the PCR tests, according to the article. Their study involved testing the new method on 54 samples, than four minutes," the team said in the paper, referring to the official name of the Covid pathogen. The researchers said their method offers speed, ease of operation, high sensitivity and portability. Their trial involved taking samples from 33 people in Shanghai who were infected with the coronavirus, with PCR tests which included people with fever who did not have the coronavirus, those with influenza, and healthy volunteers. Those cases did not yield any false positives, the team said. The Fudan researchers said that once developed, their testing device can be used for quick testing in a variety of situations, including airports, health facilities.

Mountain Glaciers Hold Less Ice Than Earlier Thought. Why That's Bad News

PARIS: (AGENCY)

Mountain glaciers shrinking due to climate change are less voluminous than previously understood, putting millions who depend on them for water supply at risk, researchers reported Monday.

Glaciers in the Andes Mountains of South America, for example, were lions of people living around the world," said co-author Mathieu Morlighem, an Earth sciences professor at Dartmouth University.

Some regions, including the Himalayan mountains, were found to have up to a third more ice than thought, "which will reduce the pressure on water resources," lead author Romain Milken, a post-doctoral researcher at the Institute of Environmental Geosciences in Grenoble, France, told AFP.

Globally, however, the satellite-based survey covering 98 percent of the world's glaciers -- around 250,000 -- found that the volume of all glaciers combined, above and below sea level, was 11 percent smaller than earlier calculations.

One silver lining is the implications for sea level rise, projected to be among the most devastating consequences of global warming.

Throughout the 20th century, melting glaciers was one of the main causes of rising ocean levels, along with the expansion of sea water as it warms. The new estimate lowers the potential contribution of glaciers to sea level rise from about 33 to 26 centimefound to store 23 percent less fresh water compared to earlier estimates, they wrote in the journal Nature Geoscience.

Bolivia's largest city La Paz, with more than two million inhabitants, is highly dependent on glacier runoff for agriculture and as a buffer against drought.

As the slow-moving rivers of ice lose more mass through melt-off than they gain with fresh snow, water flows become irregular -- including periods of flooding -- and eventually dry up, first in low altitude mountains, and eventually in higher ones.

Water from glaciers flowing into rivers is also crucial for hydropower generation and agriculture.

"The finding of less ice is important and will have implications for mil-trillion of people living around the world," said co-author Mathieu Morlighem, an Earth sciences professor at Dartmouth University.

Queen Elizabeth Wants Prince Charles' Wife To Be Known As 'Queen Consort'

Washington, United States: (AGENCY)

The United States on Monday offered a $10-million reward for information leading to the "identification or location" of the leader of the Afghanistan regional chapter of the ISIS group.

The reward offered by the US State Department was also for any information that would aid in arresting or convicting those responsible for the "terrorist attack at the Kabul airport" on August 26, which was claimed by the ISIS-Khorasan (IS-K).

The attack, which killed more than 100 people including 13 American soldiers, was launched as the United States orchestrated its chaotic withdrawal from Afghanistan and the evacuation of Afghans deemed under threat by the Taliban's takeover.

According to Washington, Sanaullah Ghafari -- also known as Shahab al-Muhajir -- was appointed head of ISIS-K in June 2020 by the ISIS group.

ISIS-K is the Afghan offshoot of ISIS, which originated in Iraq and Syria.

"Ghafari is responsible for approving all ISIS-K operations throughout Afghanistan and arranging funding to conduct operations," the State Department said in a statement.

He had been blacklisted in November as a foreign terrorist.

Little is known about Ghafari, although his nom de guerre suggests he arrived in the region from the Arab world.

He is rumored to have been an Al-Qaeda commander or a former member of the Haqqani network, one of the most powerful and feared factions in the Taliban.

ISIS-K has been responsible for some of the deadliest attacks in the region in recent years, massacring civilians in Afghanistan and Pakistan, at mosques, shrines, public squares and hospitals.

The group has especially targeted Muslims from sects it considers heretical, including Shites -- much like the original ISIS group.

It was hit hard by both the Taliban and US-led forces and was losing influence but its attacks have ramped up since their rival Islamists took power in August.

Nun, 80, In Jail For Stealing $800,000 From School Funds For Gambling

LOS ANGELES: (AGENCY)

An ageing nun who stole over $800,000 to bankroll a gambling habit and fund lavish holidays was jailed for a year in California on Monday. Mary Margaret Kreuper, 80, swore to a life of poverty when she took her vows six decades ago. But as principal of a Roman Catholic elementary school near Los Angeles, she diverted $835,000 of school funds to pay for gambling jaunts in Las Vegas, a court heard. She also used the money to take luxury trips to swanky resorts like Lake Tahoe, where well-heeled tourists gather to cruise in the summer and ski in the winter. "I have sinned, I have broken the law, and I have no excuses," Kreuper told the court, according to The Los Angeles Times. She said her crimes were "a violation of my vows, the commandments, the law, and above all the sacred trust that so many had placed in me."

Kreuper admitted wire fraud and money laundering during a hearing last year. The court was told how money sent to the school to pay for tuition and charitable donations was instead funnelled into secret accounts that Kreuper controlled.

US Congress To Vote Today To Prevent Government Shutdown

WASHINGTON: (AGENCY)

Democrats introduced a short-term bill on Monday to fund the US government ahead of a potential shutdown next week, when federal agencies run out of previously allocated money.

Shutdowns typically lead to hundreds of thousands of government workers being sent home, while parks, museums and other federal properties and services are closed. With funding running out on February 18, President Joe Biden's Democrats and opposition Republicans had been unable to agree on a "topline" number for the 2022 spending bills. House Appropriations Committee Chair Rosa DeLauro introduced the stop-gap -- known as a continuing resolution (CR) -- that would keep the lights on through March 11.

"Our country needs a government funding agreement to create good-paying jobs, grow opportunity for the middle class, and protect our national security," she said. "We are close to reaching a framework government funding agreement, but we will need additional time to complete the legislation in full."
